

KANSAS BANKERS
ASSOCIATION

BankChain Alliance

FREE VIRTUAL SESSION - OCTOBER 15, 2026

The Kansas Bankers Association is excited to announce that it has joined the BankChain Alliance. BankChain Alliance gives banks of all sizes a shared path to modern payments, tokenized deposits, stablecoins, automated settlement, and other emerging capabilities—while preserving the regulatory standards, security, and customer trust that define the banking industry. Formed by state bankers' associations representing thousands of financial institutions nationwide, BankChain Alliance is creating an industry-owned, industry-designed, and industry-governed blockchain network and is now offering inaugural membership to KBA member banks. Membership gives your bank the opportunity to engage early, help shape the roadmap, and participate in the governance and working groups that will guide the Alliance's next phase.

BANKCHAIN
— ALLIANCE —

KIM ASKWITH
INTERIM CEO
BANKCHAIN ALLIANCE

BankChain Alliance will operate as a highly secure network on a common banking platform (blockchain) that allows financial institutions to access programmable (or smart) payments within a secure and regulated environment -- enabling both tokenized deposits and stablecoins. BCA will offer a regulated alternative with modern programmable payment capabilities that support local lending capacity to the benefit of communities across our state.

The KBA will be hosting a free virtual session for KBA member banks with Kim Askwith, Interim CEO of BankChain Alliance on Thursday, October 15, 2026, at 10:30 -11:30 CT. Kim will be providing an overview and answering banker questions about this exciting new project.
